WELCOME & CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

This year marks a special collaboration between River Action of the Quad Cities and Washington D.C.'s Waterfront Center. Both will come together to host the 2013 Upper Mississippi River Conference and Urban Waterfronts 2013 under the theme – Creative Collaborations. It signifies this unique event and the importance of cooperative efforts dealing with the world's waterways and waterfronts. Almost all undertakings – no matter how large or small – require some degree of people and organizations working together, and most initiatives involve no small amount of compromise as those involved seek common ground where conflict arises. Conference panelists and speakers will describe and pay special tribute to these efforts. The conferences will take place at the RiverCenter in Davenport, Iowa from September 25th – 28th, 2013.

Upper Mississippi River Conference - In 2007, River Action brought together planners, elected officials, architects, engineers, environmental groups, developers, educators, and students to create a conference focused on the Upper Mississippi River and its stakeholders in the region. The conference has since been held annually as a comprehensive forum to discuss the issues and opportunities associated with America's Great River. Presenters will discuss topics such as frac sand mining, riverfront development, agriculture and water quality, flood insurance, and river recreation.

Urban Waterfronts - Urban Waterfronts 2013 is the Waterfront Center's 31st annual international conference focused on waterfront planning, development, and culture. Attendees of this year's conference will hear stories from Michigan, Memphis, and Mumbai. The Keynote session will involve panelists who have worked diligently for years on their riverfronts and rivers, with stories of both triumphs and struggles. Other presenters will discuss the complexities of mixed use developments, the varied aspects of the public realm, designing with nature, and the role of the working waterfront. A highlight of the conference will be the presentation of the 2013 Excellence on the Waterfront Award Winners. The Excellence on the Waterfront Awards deadline for nominations is June 28, 2013. Go to www.waterfrontcenter.org for entry forms.
